"Flawless"

Sydney Star Observer

Described as 'a vocal tour-de-force', singer-songwriter Elouise is fast becoming known for her almighty singing voice across the music scene. The Lancashire born petite powerhouse first stepped onto the professional stage at the age of ten playing 'Little Cosette' in Les Misérables. Training as an actress she was quickly snapped up to play the lead role of 'Lola' in a UK tour of Barry Mannilows hit musical Copacabana.

After moving to London to form her own band Elouise was discovered by Steve Anderson (Kylie Minogue's Musical Director) who saw a young Streisand in Elouise and shared her love for classic songs and her vision.

Featuring original material on her first EP by the likes of John Barry and Burt Bacharach her single 'Pretender' featured as 'Song of The Day' on the highly acclaimed UK pop site Popjustice, "It's rare for music this studied to sound so effortless" Peter Robinson. Covering unique versions of classic and epic torch ballads on her second EP such as 'You'll Never Walk Alone' and 'The Winner Takes It All'. Elouise already has extensive radio play in the United States where her version of 'Tainted Love' became the most requested song on veteran DJ and Billboard contributor Larry Flick's Out Q show on the prestigious US radio network Sirius XM. With a growing UK and American fan base, Elouise has been tipped to be one of 'The world's greatest songstresses very, very soon' by the Sydney Observer.

Working alongside Steve Anderson and developing her sound Elouise released two internationally acclaimed EP's and received glowing reviews from the United States, UK, Australia and Europe.

Elouise is constantly performing at major events across the UK and has performed in Trafalgar Square for London Pride under the headline Jimmy Somerville. She also performed in her own town for both Manchester and Liverpool Prides. Elouise was also invited to perform at BT London Live in Hyde Park in conjunction with the Olympics and has also supported Brian Conley in his sell out show.

Elouise is available to book for corporate events, weddings and private parties throughout the Northwest and the UK, and recently performed at Concorde at Manchester Airport for a huge Greatest Showman event.
